Head-On Auto Crash Injures 2 Eastsiders

A 70 year old prominent Eastside woman and a well known 39 year old man were confined to St. Anthony Hospital Tuesday as a result of a head-on auto collision Monday afternoon in Bexley.

Bernice Peterson, 3092 Cassidy Village, according to Bexley Police, was northbound on Cassidy Ave., when her car veered left of center and smashed head-on with a southbound car driven by Calvin Higgins, 245 Dellfield Lane.

Ms. Peterson, a music teacher and an evangelist was listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit of St. Anthony Hospital. Bexley Police said Ms. Peterson may have suffered a heart attack or a stroke, causing her to lose control of her car.

Ms. Peterson has been active in musical education for many years and was also a prominent personality in religious fields. The extent of her injuries was not disclosed by a hospital spokesperson.

GUN POLICY FORMED Police Killing Leads To $2.6 Million Suit

The shooting death of a 19 year old black man has led to a $2.6 million suit filed in federal court this week by the mother of the victim, Rosa Johnson, of 1239 Silverbrook Dr.

mother of Larry Mennifield, is plaintiff in the suit that names Police Chief Earl Burden, Mayor Tom Moody, Safety Director Bernard Chupka and the city of Columbus.

Mennifield was gunned down on Oct. 12, 1978, at a Southside doughnut shop after he allegedly tried to rob the shop. The two officers who killed Mennifield, James Cottrill and Rick Newpoff, are also named in the suit, filed by attorneys Thomas R. McGuire and Frederick M. Gittes.

A similar suit was filed in February 1979 in Franklin County Common Pleas Court by Mennifield's mother and a judge later dismissed Burden, Moody, Chupka and the city from the suit. The same suit against Cottrill and Newpoff is pending.

Meanwhile, a committee appointed by City Council has proposed that police be prohibited from shooting to kill and firing weapons to protect property. The committee, which includes city council members, Burden and representatives from the black community, was convened after a series of police intentionally brutalized and killed blacks.

The protests began after police shot and killed a 17 year old black last Christmas Eve, Keith A. Burke was killed as he ran from a taxi he was alleged to have

A 19 year old Columbus youth who allegedly went on an 18-month spree of raping, robbing and terrifying his victims, has been confined to a place where he will no longer be a menace to society.

Roderick A. Garrett, whose permanent address was unknown, was sentenced to from 7 to 25 years in prison after he pleaded guilty to five counts of rape. Common Pleas Judge Paul Martin in imposing the sentence, ordered that they be served concurrently. The trial had been scheduled to begin May 5, but was moved up a week after Garrett agreed to plead

FAVORS PUBLIC TRANSIT

'No Other Choice' In Vote For COTA, Non-Rider Says

"There is no other choice" but to vote for the Central Ohio Transit Authority (COTA) levy to be on the June 3 ballot, according to a man who seldom uses public transit.

Rob Weind said he only rode the bus about four times last year. "And that was when I was on my way to pick up my car from the garage," he admitted.

But Weind said failure of the levy to pass could create severe problems for on COTA to get around the city.

"For the people using public transit, what else are they going to do if the transit levy doesn't pass," Weind asked. "They (voters) can vote it down, but if they vote it down, bus services will be cut back. What it comes down to is that folks have to have public transit. They need public transportation."

And, Weind said, "I probably would use the bus if I wasn't self employed." He is an interior decorator and a Democratic candidate in the June 3 primary for State Representative from the 31st House District.

"If I had to drive downtown every day, I would ride the bus to avoid the traffic and not pay the high parking fees. There are some things I would turn down that I don't use, but public transit is not one of them. And if they don't do something about these gas prices, I'm going to have to do something," He said public transit would be a consideration.

The COTA sales tax levy would be for 0.5 percent

Beatty Backing Food Stamp Bill In Ohio House

A bill designed to partially fill the void if the federal Food Stamp Program is not extended by Congress, has been introduced in the Ohio House of Representatives.

The measure, H.B. 1157 co-sponsored by Rep. Otto Beatty Jr., would provide for the Ohio Dept. of Welfare to pay each person certified under the food stamp program $25 per month for special food assistance.

A check would be issued by the county welfare departments in which the recipient resides," Beatty said.

"Although $25 certainly isn't enough, it will provide some assistance," Beatty added.

Pointing out that food stamp allotment only provides 36 cents per meal per person, the freshman legislator feels that in addition to obvious humanitarian needs, there are important

Second Suspect Hunted In Rape, Kidnapping Case

One suspect has been bound over to the Franklin County Grand Jury while police have extended their search for the second suspect in the bizarre rape, abduction, robbery of a couple last week.

Roger K. Porter, 27, of 269 Chesterfield Rd., was bound over Tuesday on two charges of rape, one of robbery and one of kidnapping and was being held in the Franklin County jail under $100,000 bond.

A warrant has been issued for Ernest J. Walker, 35, an alleged accomplice of Porter in the kidnapping of James A. Porter, 23, 828 Fairwood Ave. and his 20 year old girlfriend from Cincinnati.

James Porter and Roger Porter are not related, police said.

James Porter and his girlfriend were driving on Fairwood Ave. and stopped for a traffic light at Cole St. about 12:05 a.m. Wednesday.

What's Wrong With Schools? Students, Parents To Learn

What are the problems that black students encounter in Columbus Public Schools?

Participants in the Black Youth Conference on Education hope students will tell them and parents that on Saturday. Students from various public schools have worked with educators and parents to organize the conference, which begins at 10 a.m. at Bethel A.M.E. Church, 2021 Cleveland Ave. It ends at 4 p.m.

Persons who will participate in the conference stated various reasons why. Liz Evans, host of the "Aware" program on WTVN-TV6, said she hopes students will view the adults as role models and persons they can openly talk to. In addition, she said it's hoped that students talk about what the schools are doing to prepare them for careers.

"I feel it's valuable for our young people to be aware of careers and be associated with people who can help them in career choices," she said.

Sandy Brice, chairperson of the Community Organizers, said, "The students will have a chance for once to tell how they feel and what the problems are. It's important for our students to do this because until they do, they won't feel we are concerned about their problems."

The conference is open to all students from grades 5 through 12. The keynote speaker during lunch will be Matthew Hennessee, a graduate of Columbus public schools, who is currently president of the student body at Oberlin College. He is associate minister at Mount Olivet Baptist Church.

"Women are teachers by nature and I think we have a tremendous influence over our children," said Franz Frazier, founder of Quality of Sharing, in explaining why she is participating in the conference.

She said black teachers have a particular responsibility to students, because they spend more time with them than anyone except their parents. "They need to be at the conference. They need to encourage their students to be there," she said.

Other participants in the conference include Columbus School Board members Gary Holland and Bill Moss; Clarence Lumpkin, president of the South Linden Leadership Group; Dr. Richard Kelsey, associate professor in

State; the Rev. David Todd, pastor of Bethel A.M.E. Columbus Urban League; President Frank Lomax III; and Ako Kambon, legisla-

Thompson Presses Conley For Debate

H. Lee Thompson, a candidate for the 32nd House seat at the primary election, has challenged Rep. Dean Conley, the Democratic incumbent for a series of public debates.

Thompson, engaged in the general practice of law at 825 S. Front St., said in a letter to Conley, debates would be "in the interest of facilitating an informed electorate in the 32nd district."

He suggested that the proposed debates be held at the various places in the district for the purpose of discussing the issues.

"Unfortunately," he added, "a significant number of citizens today lack confidence in elected representatives" and that they should make themselves more available to public inquiry and discussion to increase confidence in government leaders.

He also said that the Driving Park Association has been asked to sponsor the debate with Conley if his challenge is accepted.

LINDEN'S HAPPENINGS Crime Problem Hurts Victims As Well As Entire Community

By CLARENCE LUMPKIN

So often people believe there is very little they can do to reduce crime in a given area, that crime is a problem for police. I would have to disagree in both statements.

Crime can be reduced through community awareness, understanding and education, and no, it is not a police problem alone. This is a community, city, state and national problem.

Let's take this particular community. When a woman is raped, robbed, beaten or victimized by a house burglar, it is this woman and those close to her who suffer an emotional reaction. It is she who may be inconvenienced by injuries acquired during these crimes; it is she who must bear the financial loss of items stolen.

CLARENCE LUMPKIN
...south linden leadership president

So how does the community as a whole suffer? To a large degree the availability of insurance is reflected by crime in your area. The more crime the higher your rates and the more chance of your insurance being terminated.

The prices you pay in stores reflect the losses due to shoplifting. The planning of vacations, social engagements, your daily routines are often adjusted for fear of criminal activity in your community. Now if we can all accept crime as a community problem we can work toward reducing this problem.

There is no question in my mind as to what the policies of the city, county, state and community should be with respect to combating crime. Indeed, there is a growing number of people who feel that poor housing, poor education, unemployment and poverty should be viewed as crimes and those responsible for either bringing these conditions about or aggravating them ought to be viewed as criminals.

This may be true; but there is an over-reliance by the public and the community on the criminal justice system in general and the police in particular for protection and for taking care of crime problems. The role of the police and criminal justice system is to help or supplement the citizen's basic responsibility for crime control.

Retreating to the privacy of one's home, pulling down the shades and adding extra locks to the door is not going to help very much. We must collectively stand up and face the problem head on.

Opportunity, risk, desire, reward and conditioning are factors that attract criminals and govern their behavior. If there is no opportunity for crime, there will be no crime, regardless of the desire. If there is opportunity and no desire, regardless of risk or reward, there will be no crime.

If the risk is too high, regardless of the opportunity, reward or desire, criminal acts are not likely to occur. Conditioning has to do with the kind of value system one is brought up with. If opportunity, risk, desire, reward are all present but the conditioning factor is such that the sense of values and/or morals override the other factors, there also will be no crime.

The opposite is also true. Individually and collectively, we can and we must address these five basic crime producing factors and design specific kinds of action to be taken.

MORPC Focuses Attention On Mass Transit Funding

By DEBORAH ARMSTRONG

The issue of mass transit dominated Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission's (MORPC) annual luncheon meeting last Wednesday.

The meeting opened with the announcement MORPC was endorsing the Ohio highway bond issue and the Central Ohio Transit Authority (COTA) .5 percent sales tax levy.

Mayor Tom Moody, Franklin County Commissioner Michael Dorrian and Atlanta City Councilman Ira Jackson, the guest speaker, urged those at the luncheon to vote for the levy which will be on the June 3 ballot.

Jackson said the voters of Atlanta had approved a one percent sales tax in 1971 to finance the area's 53 mile rapid rail system.

"This illustrated the people's firm commitment to rapid transit," Jackson said.

Also a member of the Atlanta Regional Commission (ARC), Jackson went on to explain the role of regional planning in the development of the area's $3 billion transportation project.

"If it wasn't for regional planning much of what has happened in the Atlanta area would not have taken place," Jackson said. "The concept of rapid transit in metropolitan Atlanta grew out of regional planning."

He explained highways don't stop at city limits therefore intergovernmental cooperation was an essential aspect of their planning.

The commission had to always be sensitive to the duties and powers of local governments and ARC's arewide planning reflects this concept, Jackson said.

"It is very important to plan with and not for local governments," Jackson said. "Very often that's a problem that exists with certain agencies."

One of the larger regional commissions, ARC's membership includes seven counties and 47 municipalities. Their mass transit system known as MARTA (Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority) is the primary reason Atlanta has developed into the financial capital of the Southeast, Jackson said.

He also emphasized there is great public acceptance of rapid transit in Atlanta. Rising gas prices and high parking cost has increased the public's desire to utilize public transportation.

"The issue is now becoming can we provide adequate public transportation to meet the spiraling demand," said Jackson.

Although Jackson has served as a member of the Board of Commissioners of ARC since 1971 and was elected chairman of the commission in 1977, he has not always been an advocate of regionalism.

CENTENARIAN-PLUS-Jimmy Brookins, who attributes being good to himself and others to enabling him to celebrate his 113th birthday recently, is flanked by two of his daughters, Mrs. Canzate Campbell, Columbus, left, and Mrs. Louiseann Easter, with whom he resides in New Orleans.

113 Year Old Man Says 'Treating Myself Good' Is Recipe For Long Life

If you want to live to be a ripe old age, follow the recipe of the 113 year old father of a 64 year old Columbus woman.

Jimmy Brookins, father of Canzate Campbell, 1464 E. 21st Ave., attributes his longevity to "Treating myself good and doing the same to others."

Brookins, according to Mrs. Campbell, was born in Alabama in 1867. He now resides in New Orleans with his youngest daughter, Louiseann Easter, 59.

Mrs. Campbell, a widow, said she found her father enjoying reasonably good health when she visited him recently. Although he tends to ramble sometime when reminiscing about bygone years, he frequently takes long walks alone and generally takes care of himself, said Mrs. Campbell.

A typical example, she said that when the Easter family was routed when a recent flood that inundated their neighborhood, she said "Dad was no problem to them."

Brookins, who farmed for many years in Alabama, is the father of seven children. He outlived two wives, one dying at the age of 83, the other at 66.

He is the father of eight grandchildren, 14 great grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.

Mrs. Campbell who has resided in Columbus since 1932, is the mother of two sons, Willie, and Jimmy Campbell III, and daughter, Theresa Howard, all of Columbus. She is a member of Refuge Baptist Church.

While visiting her sister, Louiseann and husband, Tom, Mrs. Campbell said attending the Mardi Gras and chatting with her father, were the highlights of her vacation.

"I think that his very simple recipe for a long life is something that we all should consider during our daily lives," she said, adding:

"If practicing that simple philosophy enabled him to reach the age of 113, it should be an encourage to all of us to do likewise," she said.

Wood Leading Local Effort Of National Protest Rally

Hoping to change the outlook of youth unemployment, persons from Columbus and around the country say they intend to lead a massive rally to the nation's capitol where they will dramatize their displeasure with high unemployment and inflation.

Jesse Wood, coordinator of the Columbus committee participating in the rally, said, "We believe the intent of the rally is a good one, and the condition of the country as it relates to youth unemployment needs attention."

The rally, set for May 17 in Washington, D.C., is being led by the National Mobilization Committee with the Rev. Jesse Jackson serving as the chief coordinator. In issuing a call for national support, Jackson said, "We must march. We need you to join with us as we raise the issues of inflation and joblessness." Jackson is president of PUSH (People United to Save Humanity).

Wood, who is affiliated with the local PUSH Chapter, said the rally includes members of labor, religious, energy, civil rights, women, consumer and youth organizations.

He said the Columbus group will leave at 11:30 p.m. May 16 and leave Washington about 7 p.m. May 17 following the rally. He said the local PUSH chapter hopes to have four buses of youths and parents to make the trip.

Ministers, businessmen and concerned community persons are being asked to contribute financial support for the trip, he said. "We hope this will be incentive to involve more of our local people and we would hope to use this to rebuild and reorganize the local chapter," he said.

"Although the march will be in Washington, it reflects similar conditions across the country," Wood said in explaining local involvement in the rally. "The emphasis we're placing on it would be just as

The individual who practices intellectual honesty, regardless of organizational affiliation, is making progress.

Die Hards

A group that calls itself "The Cleveland Committee To Oppose The Olympic Boycott," with Harrison Dillard as co-chairman, is going out on a limb in opposing President Carter's request that American athletes boycott the Moscow Olympics.

In an earlier editorial we stated that, in view of President Carter's positive statement that the United States keep its athletes out of the Moscow games, there was no choice but to support the president's request.

The disgruntled and selfish have now come to the fore with ideas and plans to abort the President's request and, the Action of the American Olympic Committee. They want to file a lawsuit and encourage athletes to go to Moscow anyway.

Harrison Dillard, from his own personal experience, knows full well that Olympic athletes have to be underwritten. This then opens the door for Russia, via, clandestine groups, to gladly pay the expense of any American athlete who would be so unpatriotic as to defy the president and go to Moscow anyway. Nothing would suit the Russians more than to be able to embarrass the United States. What Harrison Dillard's group proposes opens the door for this.

In these days of crisis in Iran, inflation, recession, mass layoffs of workers, crisis in public schools, the average guy on the street could care less about some athletes not participating in the Olympics.

More important though, is that in the international game of politics, you have to show unity and respect. The Russian government being a dictatorship, demands this of its people; the United States being a republic has to command it. To the extent that we as citizens fail to respond, to that extent we weaken the government.

President Carter has made the Olympic boycott an international issue. In this crisis prone year, the least we can do is to comply and support him.

Dick Gregory Is Wearing Himself Thin

Starting out as a comedian, Dick Gregory earned a national reputation and made some money. He moved over into the college forum where he became a spokesman for the Negro Civil Rights Movement. Here too, he met with success. He became an activist in the civil rights and human rights movements and was well received.

To popularize as well as publicize his views and fetishes, he walked, danced and engaged in many other antics. His wit made whatever he did humorous.

Lately, Dick Gregory has been hard put to come up with worthwhile gimmicks. His latest antic was to go to Tehran. In this, he joined a long line of other individuals who presumed that they possessed some special power that would humble the Iranian officials and make themselves national heroes.

Negroes in the United States are so bogged down with problems that we can't afford to waste any talents or resources we have on any other people's problems.

Dick Gregory, Jesse Jackson, Rev. Lowery, Andrew Young, et al., would be serving a much greater need if they would just concentrate their time and talents on just some of the problems Negroes face in the United States.

Anything To Get Rid Of A Black President

Ever since George Forbes was elected President of City Council, there has been a movement in and out of City Council to depose him.

The latest gimmick is that of Councilman Barbara J. Pringle, a west side Democrat. Her group, unable to defeat Forbes in party caucus, now wants to add an additional councilman (34th), designate him President and elect him at-large.

Some black councilmen, ignorant of what's behind the Pringle move, have listened and given some encouragement to the sponsors of this anti-Forbes movement.

We can't recall any council president in the past 40-years getting as much criticism because of his race, as has George Forbes. There have been elected Council President, and he won't play Uncle Tom, the racist want to get rid of him even if they have to play havoc with the City Charter.

Racism has cost Cleveland a terrible price already. It's about time that people like Councilman Pringle and her cohorts on the west side realize once and for all, that black people have as much right to live in Cleveland as they have and, we are not going to retreat one inch from the gains we have made.

George Forbes' record as president of Cleveland's City Council compares favorably with that of any other president. In fact, many of the things he has done for Cleveland benefited whites more than blacks.

Irish council presidents. Some of them like James Stanton, were bitter anti-black; Stanton almost wrecked Cleveland trying to discredit Carl Stokes' administration.

Nobody then found any fault in the way council presidents were elected. As soon as a black man gets picking about George Forbes and the efforts to get rid of him, Cleveland can profit much more from working with black people rather than always trying to belittle and humiliate them. It would do some west-side councilmen well to realize this.

BUSINESS IN THE BLACK

By CHARLES E. BELLE

On The Surface

REAGAN IS RIGHT

Government took in over $731.7 billion in fiscal 1978 and turned around and spent $745.4 billion too much for the top two current conservative balance the budget boys in this years Presidential campaign. Carter has recently called for "painful" cuts, including ones in urban aid, transportation and youth unemployment.

Even this presumably is too little and too late for his Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan. According to the A-1 Republican candidate, the federal government "has overspent, overestimated, and overregulated" the American economy. All the evidence points to a slash in the federal government spending side if either of these two men take office in January, 1981.

Carter's administration officials admit they are finding the recent rise in unemployment to 6.2 percent in March to be an upward trend. The jobless rate, among blacks increased to nearly 12 percent. This disastrous trend is dictating death to blacks in a real sense.

No one is suggesting that either Carter or Reagan is going to deliver us back into slavery, even if one is an old plantation owner. In fact, both might qualify for that little barb since Reagan owns a ranch. There must be a difference between a plantation owner and a farmer or rancher. Or is there?

Am impressed though,

By WILLIAM O. WALKER

Who's Fighting Our Battles?

I invite those of you who are paid up members of the NAACP to get your April issue of the Crisis and take a good look at its contents.

As I understand it, when Dr. W.E.B. DuBois founded the Crisis, it was to be the voice of the civil rights movement as the NAACP delineated its area of the struggle. In the past, many articles in the Crisis were provocative, militant, informative and inspiring.

As I leafed through my April copy of the Crisis, I was looking for the latest information on what Ben Hooks and his staff were doing on the various fronts of the civil rights struggle.

To my amazement, all I found was six articles on the "Energy Problems" of this country.

Now I believe President Carter when he says we face a major energy problem. I can certainly feel it when I go to the gas station. But, as a black man, I've got other problems that I think are more important to me.

The fact of the matter is, practically all of the information in the six articles in the Crisis, have been in one form or the other, offered free to the Black press for the past two years. We didn't use the releases because we thought the plight of the Negro as he battled segregation, unemployment and desegregation of our public schools, was more important to write about and report on.

As a member of the NAACP, I would like to know what Ben Hooks, the executive secretary has been doing on the civil rights front; how many new branches have been established; how many old ones reopened.

With the NAACP engaged in a number of school desegregation cases throughout the nation, surely there ought to be a monthly report on the progress of these cases. What about the cases that have already been settled? Are the orders of the court being fully implemented by the by the school officials?

Then, there is the resurgence of the Ku Klux Klan and other hate organizations. As the top civil rights organization, what is the NAACP to say or report on this thing called freedom?

As this is an important election year, what are the NAACP officials saying through their official organ about the candidates; the importance of Blacks registering and voting.

All of these issues seem to me to be far more important to the rights and freedom of Black people than canned articles on energy.

The Negro in America had better awaken to the fact that one of our most serious problems is communication. We are not an informed people. This is why racial unity is so hard to come by. The Crisis magazine should be an important instrument in keeping Black people informed and motivated as the NAACP battles on the civil rights front.

The Pastoral Of U. S. Roman Catholic Bishops On Racism

By BISHOP JAMES P. LYKE

Saturday, February 23, I was in flight to Kansas City, Missouri. Typically, I brought with me ample reading material and catch-up work, so that time on the plane would be profitably spent. One of my flight projects was to reread the pastoral letter on racism of the United States bishops.

My reflection was further stimulated by an article from the PLAIN DEALER about Allen C. Edwards and his family (Focal Point, page 17-A, 2/23/80). Mr. Edwards, his wife, Barbara and their two children have been the object of repeated harassment. As the writer, Michael K. Krisby, noted:

In three years, fourteen windows have been broken, the house has been shot at, a firecracker has been ignited in the gas tank of their car, eggs have been thrown at the house, and the family members have been insulted and threatened. In this most recent incident, someone had thrown a beer bottle filled with a flammable liquid at their house. The bottle hit the window screen and rebounded back on the steps instead of going through the window. Fortunately, Mr. Edwards was able to douse the flames immediately with a bucket of water. Allen Edwards, 51, is black; Barbara Edwards, 33, is white. There are twenty-four congregations of varying Christian traditions in the area where the Edwards live - Collinwood. Our hope is that the Christian people of this area have let the Edwards know in clear and unequivocal language that such behavior does not represent their feelings. Our hope, further, is that the pastors of the area have taken the occasion to preach on the Christian response to this ungodly behavior. Our final hope is that all people of goodwill from the neighborhood will band together so such disgraceful activity will not happen again. However, given the fact that such racist deeds have been going on for the past three years, one doubts whether the churches have ever dealt with the problem in a consistent, systematic way.

After reading the PLAIN DEALER article, the very first sentence in the Bishops' pastoral appeared right on target:

Racism is an evil which endures in our society and in our church. Despite apparent advances and even significant changes in the last two decades, the reality of racism remains. In large part it is only the external appearances which have changed.

Racism, whether expressed covertly or overtly, is a fact of life today, despite the fact that the courts have eliminated statutory racial discrimination and Congress has enacted civil rights legislation; despite the fact that some minority people have achieved some measure of success; despite the fact that relatively few would express support for the KKK or engage in the myths and misconceptions of former years. The pastoral letter of the U.S. Bishops suggests that we "look beneath the surface of our national life" for the reflections of racism. For example -

In employment: 5% of White Americans were unemployed, but unemployment for Blacks was 11.4%; for Hispanics, 8.3%; for native Americans, 40%. And as for minority youths: 35% for Black youths; 19.1% for Hispanic and 60% for native Americans. (Figures are from first quarter of 1979).

Obviously, these figures reveal ugly implications for family life, housing, education, and political life (the poor generally have little political clout).

Racism is also reflected in the disproportionate numbers of minorities in our prisons, and in the awful reality that - to use the words of the pastoral - "violent crime is the daily companion of a life of poverty and deprivation and that the victims of such crimes are also disproportionately non-White and poor. Racism is also apparent in the attitudes and behavior of some law enforcement officials and the unequal availability of legal assistance."

Finally, to give a local application, the latest issue of Civil Rights Update lists the Cleveland School system as ranking third in the nation among the country's most segregated school systems. (To be continued next week.)

CAPITOL COMMENTS

Rhodes Marries Reagan?

The political marriage of Gov. James A. Rhodes and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan a couple of weeks ago, gave dramatic testimony to the truism of that old adage that politics does indeed make strange bedfellows.

With a combination of Ohio Republican leaders and members of the Reaganites serving as best men, the ceremonies were performed on the well groomed lawn of the stately governor's mansion in Bexley, a Columbus suburb on the sunny Sunday afternoon of April 20.

In anticipation of the royal wedding, Reagan national reporters, both print and electronic media.

With the exception of the invocation in which Columbus Mayor Tom Moody prayed that the divine blessing be bestowed upon the solemn marital union, Rhodes, in his inimitable fashion, took full command of the ceremonies.

Rhodes, without one second of hesitancy, told the obviously partisan crowd he was endorsing the presidential candidacy of the hardcore conservative, because he "can and will win in November." Of his endorsement, Rhodes, 70, said of the 69 year old Reagan, "I thought Saturday was too early and Sunday was too late to announce his endorsement."

Rhodes, who will not be a delegate to the party of California, he sought Rhodes' advice at a Republican governors' conference and he "held out a helping hand."

"I will never forget that, and I will never forget what he is doing now," Reagan added. Rhodes, regarded down through the years as a moderate and identified with the liberal wing of the Republican Party, had maintained a neutral posture in the presidential race.

His endorsement of Reagan was in sharp contrast with his attitude toward the presidential candidacy of U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater back in 1964. As an example, when Goldwater brought his campaign to Columbus, Rhodes shunned him.

Whether Rhodes' marriage to Reagan was motivated by him subscribing to Reagan's political philosophy or whether he really believes he will win in November and made the move as he'll be on good terms with the White House, at this time, cannot be determined.

Rhodes, who will not be a delegate to the

to support Reagan, but whether he will campaign the state on his behalf, is a debatable question.

negative stereotyping that can spark fear and panic leading to deadly use of force.

There is no easy answer to the problem.

Model codes, strict police administrative supervision, community-relations efforts, recruitment of more minority law enforcement officers, are all part of the solution.

No single one of these, perhaps not even all in combination, will totally solve the problem. But those 600 fatalities can be cut to a small fraction of the number if those steps were taken.

Cities with strict gun codes -- and enforcement of those codes -- report sharply reduced incidents of civilian fatalities.

Curbing police violence makes for better policing too. Officers can do a better job when they've got strict rules and regulations that govern anticipated incidents.

Police departments should not view the outcry against deadly force as an anti-police feeling. Rather it is the pained protest of people who want the police to protect them, not endanger them.

Recent moves in some cities to arm police with shotguns could wind up escalating the cycle of violence. And it must be said that some of those moves are the result of escalating violence against police officers.

It's time for a truce on both sides. Police forces need to guard against the kind of violent incidents that create loss of life and community anger. And citizens should be more forthcoming with aid and information to help police protect their communities, especially depriving lawbreakers of the false sense that they will be tolerated by the people they victimize.

Call To Curb Police - Civilian Violence

Violent attacks on policemen and police violence against civilians are growing problems that need to be dealt with.

One major element in the deadly equation -- the question of police violence, was the subject of an extraordinary meeting last December in which police officials and community leaders met under the auspices of federal officials and minority organizations.

That meeting was often stormy, but since it was the first such national dialogue that is to be expected. More important was the evident concern of police representatives about the gravity of the problem.

Just days after the meeting an incident occurred in Miami that illustrates the seriousness of the problem. A black businessman on a motorcycle was chased by four policemen who beat him to death, at first reporting the death as the result of an accident.

The four were indicted for manslaughter, and reports of the inquiry into the incident suggest that violence against civilians was far from rare. In fact, one officer admitted that Miami police had a scale to rate injuries inflicted on civilians.

It is estimated that about 600 people die each year at the hands of law enforcement officers. That's more than one person every day. About half are minorities.

Typically, the incident occurs without justification. Often the victim is unarmed, or not in a position to endanger the officers. In too many cases the victim is shot in the back. Few victims were suspected of serious crimes or of being dangerous.

Many cases are the tragic result of mutual fears compounded by cultural misunderstandings between white policemen and minority youths.

Minority policemen have rarely been involved in such incidents, indicating their understanding of the ghetto's values, behavior patterns, and non-verbal signals makes them better equipped to deal with situations that might otherwise be explosive.

Racism is sometimes a factor -- a prejudiced officer abusing his authority. But more significant may be the subtle racism that pervades our society and makes it difficult to avoid the

Tribute For Elijah Pierce

See by the paper that Capital University has awarded Elijah Pierce an honorary degree "for his achievement as one of the country's leading folk artists." Over the last several years, Mr. Pierce has enjoyed public recognition for his works by the white folks, but there has seemed to have been a shortage of breath by his own people in praise.

It will be noted that the doctor of fine arts degree honor accepted the man as one of the leading folk artists in the country. And it will be noted that it has been the white man who has recognized the artist as one of the leading in the nation. And what have black people done about it all?

His barber shop and building, which houses his collections, sit in a rather deserted sector of Long Street except for a heavy auto traffic. Few pedestrians ever walk by.

It is possible that Mr. Pierce, at 88 young years, may want to stay out there in that very spot, for that is where it was done and nostalgia may keep him attached. But, come some years from now when Mr. Pierce is no longer with us, what will happen to the art pieces? To be sure they may find themselves in a niche of the Columbus Art Museum — they are that good — or a corner of the Martin Luther King, more likely, but how much more appropriate that they be kept together in a kind of Elijah Pierce heritage of its own?

The proposition is that the black people of this city put up a pot of money for a heritage for Mr. Pierce's art gifts to the city. It is something for the black people to do.

When the city's black folk discovered that black youths are susceptible to the angle worm, sickle cell disease, many women factions rushed into clubs to raise money to study a way to save American black youths from the diseases. One had no great respect for the women's programs because too much of the action had to do with getting funds from the United States government for the study and that money was pretty high in five figures — so high that university labs tried to funnel the money into their research work. It all fell through.

Black folks of Columbus should build a shrine for the Pierce art works with their own money. It could be done very simply with it costing no one a great deal of money. As an example, years ago, Wilberforce University set up a "Book of a Million Names," each signer representing a dollar donation to the school. The signature of each person was a dollar.

That same scheme of things could be reborn to convert Mr. Pierce's barber shop and museum into an attractive building allowing more room for each art piece's display, a kind of an individualized niche of its own. There should be no floundering out by clubs to haul in national government support which too often results in funds going into private pockets. Such an effort should take on the aura of a sacred act by the black folks of the city, something they could boast of doing on their own.

There is continued admonishment against wholesale seeking of foundation help and all of that. The urgency is that it is done out of the pockets of black people so that we can say, we did it on our own and our way.

BY THE WAY...

By Joe Black.

How many times have you grumbled when you read or heard how more than forty percent of our Black youths are unemployed? What thoughts came to your mind? Racism? Unqualified? Well, some thoughts come to my mind, but they are not racism nor unqualified.

All negatives in the Black community are not the result of racism, and I am proud of the thousands of youthful Blacks who have acquired college educations. Unqualified is an excuse the private sector will have to eliminate. But, my young friends, I want you to remember that acquiring an education should have done more than prepare you for a job, it should have also taught you how to think.

a position in the field in which you studied, but is that reason enough to sacrifice your pride and dignity. That's right! When you are not working, you are not only an unemployed statistic, but you are also without pride and dignity. You can't force business and industry to create new jobs, but you can retain independence and pride by working. Where? The same jobs that helped your parents and grandparents survive years ago... that's right, waiters, bellhops, and waitresses. As the old adage goes: "A bird in the hand beats two in the bush," and always remember that you can still look for your ideal position while working on the less desirable job.

Announcing Pontiac's 1980 Bonneville.
A driving experience that goes a long way.

Pontiac Bonneville for 1980 will surprise you. Besides its new aerodynamic design, Bonneville takes you farther on a gallon than you have thought possible with a full-size luxury car.

The Bonneville goes far on 18 mpg and 450 miles.

18 EPA EST. MPG	450 EST. RANGE
24 HWY. EST.	600 HWY. EST. RANGE

Test drive one soon. It will be one of the most exciting driving experiences you have had in years. By far.

Remember: Compare the boxed estimated mpg to the "estimated mpg" of other cars. You may get different mileage and range depending on your speed, trip length and weather. Your actual highway mileage and range will probably be less than the highway estimates. Bonneville's range estimates were obtained by multiplying EPA and highway estimates by the car's 25 gallon fuel tank capacity. Bonneville is equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your dealer for details.

BLACKS IN THE 80s

'Now Is Our Time,'
CMACAO Speaker Says

By FRANK GARNER

"At the dawn of each new decade, we pause to reflect on where we have been and to conjecture about where we might go," Dr. Charles E. Taylor said while addressing the 14th Annual CMACAO Dinner.

"We stand today in the sunset of the Twentieth Century. Our attention is tugged by the hostages in Iran, the Russian invasion of Afghanistan, the emerging preparation to study war—some more, the process of electing an American President, and a national economy teetering on the brink of disaster," he continued.

"You and I wonder aloud but with decreasing volume about how in just a few short years the matter of equal opportunity for Black Americans has slipped from the agenda of a nation whose concern for human rights is at once proclaimed in the four corners of the earth. The pathological persistence of racism gives the impression that history repeats itself," Taylor declared.

Citing excerpts from "the years of Black Reconstruction" (the 1860s through the 1870s), he said, "An ex-slave, Blanche Kelso Bruce, was representing Mississippi in the United States Senate. Pinckney

CHARLES E. TAYLOR
...CMACAO speaker

Benton Stewart Pinckney, a young, charming and daring Black man, was sitting in the governor's mansion in Louisiana."

"The power of Black Reconstruction meant not only progress in high places. But to thousands of worn and weary Black women bent over washtubs and their mates who toiled in the hot and dusty cotton fields—it meant hope for their sons and daughters," Taylor asserted.

But according to him, "Enforcement of the laws of the United States of America became a charade. The 14th and 15th Amendments became involved in enormously complicated legal processes involving policemen, layers and layers of lawyers and judges and the expenditures of thousands of dollars in legal fees."

"This was a time of trouble in the nation. A time of obstacles at every turn. Yet a time of great demand for men and women, Black and white, with trained minds and developed character. A time when organizations like CMACAO were sorely needed," Taylor said.

"We stand here today in the sunset of the Twentieth Century...But as we stand here and now we sense that the mood of the nation is shifting again. We sense that the pillars of the shelter constructed in the post-Civil Rights era are beginning to crumble," he warned.

"Enforcement of the laws of the land are becoming a charade, involved in an enormously complicated process involving layers and layers of lawyers and judges with millions of dollars being spent on legal fees," Taylor continued.

"The Bakkes, the Webbers and their supporters are attempting to forge yet another era of Jim Crow. An era in which the basis for exclusion from the rights guaranteed by the Constitution of these United States and paid for by the blood, sweat and tears of our forefathers is shifting from race to so-called 'qualifications,'" he added.

"As the glow of justice grows dimmer in the face of a deteriorating economy and the increasing non-adherence to the standards of law and morality, my greatest fear tonight is that the fight for freedom in America will become fight between me and my brother," Taylor said.

"Every place across this nation some young brother who has not will take those of us who have, regardless of our race or station in life. No one is safe from the monster that is created by a system that destroys hope," he declared.

(Unfortunately, Taylor's words were proven true, perhaps at the very moment he was uttering them. While acting as Mistress of Ceremonies at the dinner where Taylor spoke, someone broke into a and robbed the Columbus residence of Ann B. Walker.)

Born and reared in Columbus, Ohio, Dr. Taylor received his B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from Ohio State University, completing his doctorate in educational administration in 1972.

Dr. Charles E. Taylor became president of Wilberforce University Dec. 1, 1976. At age 32, Dr. Taylor was the youngest chief executive ever appointed to head the 123-year-old institution, and the youngest president of any United Negro College Fund

Institution. Prior to his appointment at Wilberforce, Dr. Taylor was Vice President for Fiscal Affairs at the Columbus-based Academy for Contemporary Problems, a center for public policy research. His experience also includes tenure as Staff Associate at the Institute for Educational Leadership and Special Assistant to the Commissioner of the U.S. Office of Education in Washington, D.C.

As for CMACAO itself, the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization was incorporated as a private, non-profit agency in 1964. In March 1965, Dr. Samuel Stellman of the OSU School of Social Work became the interim director on a free basis since the agency had not received funding. Twenty-five agencies were presented on the first membership roster.

Since 1966, a wide range of CMACAO sponsored and operated programs ensued, including Manpower, Senior Opportunities and Services, Head Start, Project CLUE, Opportunity Products, New Careers, Mobilization of Resources, Project Upgrade, Horizons Unlimited, Workhouse Employment Program, Alcoholism Treatment, Food Buying Clubs, Credit Union and New Dimensions, Economic Development and Winterization.

Throughout the years of struggling with funding crises and dealing with the uncertainties of federal commitment, CMACAO has exercised "grace under pressure" and the agency has persevered and continued to provide human services to those who need them in Franklin County.

"There can be no changes or compromise in our overall objectives. We cannot stop serving the poor until they no longer need to be served. CMACAO's objectives for the 80's will be to combine expertise and resources with an aggressive response to the changing environment for the continued benefit of the poor," declares CMACAO's present Executive Director Curtis A. Brooks.

"Anything less than that," he said, "would be to walk away from the poor." But Dr. Taylor warns that no course of action that we and confusing days ahead. As we pause in the dawn of a new decade to consider where we have been and to conjecture about where we might go, we ought to give thanks to God who has brought us thus far along the way, the God of Abraham, the God of Whitney Young, the God of Martin King, the God within whose power the course of all human events ultimately rests," he said.

But "I hope you remember these words," Taylor encouraged, "as we face whatever new challenges lie ahead. People are unreasonable, illogical and self-centered. Love them anyway. People favor underdogs but follow only top dogs."

United Negro College Fund Has Three Dynamic Lady Supporters

By MILLIE CHAVOUS
In every community worth its salt, there are those women who stand head and shoulders above the rest because they pride themselves on having their own personal agenda. This group of respected personalities are unusual in many, many ways. One thing that sets them apart from the ordinary Jane is that they have an extraordinary amount of energy, the number one quality for success.

Secondly, they have the ability to commit themselves to a task and see it through. In other words, it's not very much, if anything, that they leave hanging. They can tackle fifty projects almost simultaneously and get them all done, and if you asked them how they managed they often say, "It was a lot of fun." They always manage to leave their listener with the impression that it was no big deal.

Mabel Watkins, Atty. Marguerite M. Neal, Dr. Margaret Roberts and Roberta Bassett fit this bill to a tee. If you already know these dynamos, then count yourself lucky. Collectively they tend to opt for a low profile but their lives are much too interesting to not be shared.

Mabel Watkins is the only one of the four who does not work outside of the home. She is best known as the president of the Columbus Chapter of Cupidettes, an organization that contributes generously to the quality of the social, cultural and educational life of the community. She is a member of Hostess Auxiliary of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church and a charter member of Kappa Gamma Rho Sorority, to name a few of her affiliations and activities.

Eddie, Mabel's husband, is a retired navy man and a supervisor in the defense department. They have three married children, Mrs. Yvonne Watkins Ross, Mrs. Cheryl Watkins Stafford and Eddie Watkins Jr. Their two daughters attended Ohio State University and their son attended Franklin University.

Mabel enjoys both her organizations and her family, especially her five grandchildren. She has enough energy for both. Now that the Cupidettes pageant is over for this year, Mabel will be devoting some of her leisure time to the United Negro College Fund drive.

Atty. Marguerite M. Neal is the deputy director at the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations and the mother of Jennifer "Reagan," a seven year old that keeps her hopping. Marguerite is divorced and she and Reagan are a great pair.

Being the energetic woman that she continuously claims not to be, Marguerite has chalked up honors. She received the Service Award from Sargent Shriver for Outstanding Service in Vista and the Governor's National Newspaper Association Award for Outstanding Government Service in Ohio.

Marguerite is a member of the Youth Service Guild, Eta Phi Beta Sorority, and the Robert B. Elliott Law Club. She serves on the United Negro College Fund Advisory Board and she chairs the Women's Division of the fund.

This fantastic woman is an excellent conversationalist, but she refuses to talk about age. "It's too depressing," she says. Why she wouldn't even tell me what month she was born in and that was all I asked.

Dr. Margaret M. Roberts is one busy lady, but if it were left with her to tell you, you would never find out. She is the director of speech and hearing at Children's Hospital. She is very active in her professional organizations at the local, state and national level and is very well known in her field.

Margaret is a multi-faceted person. She balances her family, social, pro-

NAMES/FACES IN THE NEWS

OSU Names Student's Dean; Simpson To Discuss Banking

Mitchell D. Livingston of the University of Iowa was named dean of student life in the Office of Student Services at Ohio State University. Livingston has been director of residence service at Iowa since 1975 and will be the first at Ohio State to serve as dean of student life.

The title and the office were established in a reorganization of the Office of Vice President for Student Services approved by the university board of trustees. Livingston is responsible for an $11-million budget at Iowa and programs reaching about 6,000 students and a professional staff.

James Simpson, staff officer at the Plaza banking office of BancOhio National Bank, will speak on "General Banking Services" to students at two schools. Simpson will meet with eighth and tenth grade students from Hamilton Middle School on May 12 and with fourth and fifth grade students from Clinton Elementary School on May 9.

He will explain savings and checking accounts and safe deposit services to the students and provide them information on establishing credit. Simpson joined BancOhio in 1976 as a management trainee.

Smallwood has taught at the university for 10 years.

Robert Stull, associate dean of the College of Arts at Ohio State, was invited to the White House and gave a presentation at the Rayburn Center hosted by the Black Congressional Caucus during the National Conference of Artists annual meeting in Washington.

Stull, chairman of the board of directors of NCA, and members of the organization are negotiating to secure a national headquarters in Washington. About 700 people attended the conference, including students, artists, historians, educators and government officials.

NCA, founded in 1958, is the largest and oldest organization of black artists in the country.

to Lakeside Hospital. She has been incarcerated in Cleveland Heights Police Station since Saturday.

Her mother, Juanita Jones and brother, Terry Allen Jones in a Call and Post interview stated that the family had not been allowed to view and identify the body. Mrs. Jones said that the police stated identification had been made by them. The family said Renee supposedly had torn off her clothes and hung herself, yet when admitted to the hospital authorities told family the body was fully dressed. Cleveland Heights Police said only that she hung herself with an article of clothing.

Police said when Jones was arrested she told them her name was Dianne Thompson, one of ten aliases she has been known to use. Police said Jones had an extensive arrest record.

Renee would have celebrated her 23rd birthday on Friday, April 25.

Funeral arrangements are pending the coroner's report.

Metropolitan School Accepts Applications

The Metropolitan School of Columbus, a private alternative elementary school in downtown at 78 Jefferson Ave., is accepting applications for admissions of students ages 5 to 11. The deadline is June 1. The school is in its 10th year of operation and has a student body from various parts of the metropolitan area. The program is individualized and makes use of the city's cultural and recreational services.

Tuition assistance is available to students. For further information, call 224-1672.

Adoption Campaign To Draw Attention To The Homeless

The county's adoption agency has planned a campaign to draw attention to approximately 300 youngsters under its care who are waiting for adoptive homes.

Billboards, posters and taxi signs representing the Franklin County Children Services (FCCS) theme, "We have a dream that someone will adopt us regardless of our age, race or handicap," will be displayed throughout the community, according to Doris Calloway, adoption recruitment specialist.

The campaign, May 9-8, will be highlighted by a kickoff dinner dance May 9 at the Holiday Inn Downtown at 7:30 p.m. Georgia State Sen. Julian Bond will be the keynote speaker, addressing the importance of permanency for children.

He will be joined by State Reps. Les Brown and Otto Beatty Jr., City Councilman Jerry Hammond and FCCS Board Chairperson Dr. Marie Stinson.

Persons interested in learning more about the campaign or adopting can call Ms. Calloway at 275-2513.

Claims Story Was Not True

Last week Pythian Robbin apparently suffered another lapse of memory, insisting that "man, I never told you anything like that. What are you trying to do, get me banned from the club?"

Gene Walker, manager of the club, said Robbin had already been banned from the club because of his unacceptable conduct but came back into the place after he had been stabbed elsewhere.

Walker, obviously concerned about maintaining the excellent reputation of the club, said he feared some of his clientele might think Robbin was still there from reading the story of the incident.

Police Probe

The investigation was continuing in an effort to establish the "credibility of the people we've talked with concerning the case," he said.

Steckman also said police will run a test on Hughes' hands to see if he fired a gun shortly before his death. He further said people at the residence are being asked to take a polygraph test.

In the meantime, funeral service is expected to be announced later this week. No other details were available at Tuesday's deadline.

Walker, obviously concerned about maintaining the excellent reputation of the club, said he feared some of his clientele might think Robbin was still there from reading the story of the incident.

Officials say 24 new routes would be started, more buses on major routes would occur, late night and weekend service would be reinstated, and a program of reduced fares for regular riders would be possible.

Organizations that have endorsed the levy include the League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus, Columbus Urban League, NAACP, Franklin County Committee on Aging, Metropolitan Area Church Board, and Columbus-Franklin County AFL-CIO.

thinks it is broad enough to allow for adoption by the Division of Police.

The new policy could be adopted by Burden and Safety Director Bernard Chupka without action by City Council, but some blacks have said they question whether the police would carry out the policy without formal legislation from the council.

Among recommendations included in the policy are that police use minimum force necessary in apprehending suspects; don't fire weapons unless in a life-threatening situation; believe the felon can be apprehended later without using deadly force; and use extreme caution when dealing with youths.

The policy also says that police can use their weapons when their lives or those of others are in danger. The policy says police should avoid shooting to kill.

Hammond said public hearings would be conducted on the policy recommendations before it is presented to Burden.

In coming out for the issue Beatty joined a select by-partisan group pledging to wage an all-out statewide campaign on its behalf.

INVESTING IN LAND

QUESTION: What is the key to a good land investment?
ANSWER: One of the nice things about investing in land is that it rarely presents management problems. However, since it will produce no income, it should be bought only if you are financially able to carry the debt.

For the typical investment, you have to put down cash amounting to 25% to 50% of the total cost of the land, with regular payments on the remainder until the entire debt is paid. But if you prefer to pay taxes on a long-term capital gain, rather than ordinary income, then land can be an attractive investment.

The key to a good land investment is predicting land needs of the future. Here is where the experience of a good local Realtor comes in. He has intimate knowledge of community needs, and can forecast, far better than the layman, what will be required for future land use and the best areas for growth potential.

If you have questions in any area of real estate, feel free to phone or stop in at SAM LIGON REALTY, 27 HOFFMAN AVE., COLUMBUS, OHIO 43205, (614) 252-1313. We're here to help! Writer's Poems Capture Life In Fulfilling Way

"I don't write to be famous."
Somehow, most, if not all

SHAY BANKS
...writes book

writers find a way of saying that. Shay Banks is no exception, even though what she's written is quite exceptionable.

Some 22 of her poems have been published in a small book called "Butterflies and Me." Since its publication last winter, Ms. Banks has received inquiries concerning the book from several cities, including Harlem in New York City. She said she's not sure how book stores learned of the book, but feel it's a compliment that they want to market it.

She terms it a collection of "intimate poems." Readers are terming it "a must book" for their collection.

"I find that all different kinds of people like it. Men like it. Women say you must have really been in my head when you wrote this. They feel like I have picked their unconscious."

The poems are short and full of succinct statements on life. "My search for love/has caused me to find myself" one says. Another says, "Friends are nice/They give simply because/You need it."

Some of the poems even make the reader feel a little guilty for not having realized that life is a continuous evolution. Reading "Butterflies and Me" makes denying that impossible.

And, the poems cause considerable reflection on one's life-in-relation-to life all around each individual. "As I stretch forth my wings/ I can feel my body/ reaching/ for the heavens/ I can Hear/ I can See/ I can Feel/ God's Presence."

Ms. Banks said the evolution of her life found in the poems is not hers alone. And she expects even further growth when she studies in Africa this summer. She intends to explore life in Senegal, Togo, Benin, Ghana, Tanzania and Egypt during August.

"This is a chance of a life time," she said. "This is like going on a mecca, although I know it's not. I expect to experience some awakening."

She also intends to record her experiences and have them published into a second book. Interviews will be made with African artists and photos and accounts of her studies will be distributed to newspapers and magazines for publication, she said.

Ms. Banks said funds from her book sales will be used to help pay for the trip. She said the faith others have expressed in her by buying the book should be used to share with them the spirit of life that is so uniquely Africa.

"What I talk about, everybody talks about," she said. "I guess they call me a romantic. I guess I just don't see it that way all the time... I try to get people to put themselves in my world and experience what I experience."

Ms. Banks will share her experience during Ohio State Community Outreach Day May 24 at Franklin Park when she reads her poems. And she will be given a book party June 7 at Shepard Branch Library. For copies of her book, write N'Layn, P.O. Box 08186, Columbus, Ohio, 43208.

Clippers Bounced From Top; Bruce To Discuss Buckeyes

The Columbus Clippers, falling to the New York Yankees 8-6 in their annual exhibition game, are battling to regain first place in the International League. The Clippers have been in a slump and after Monday's games were trailing leader Richmond by a game.

The Columbus team will end a two-game home series Thursday night at Franklin County Stadium against Toledo before visiting the Mud Hens for five games.

The Clippers return to the stadium next Tuesday to face Richmond and then Pawtucket. The game against Toledo on May 8 will be family night. Youths with their Crew Cards and a paid adult are admitted free.

Bill Madlock, the hard-hitting third baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been suspended for 15 days and fined $5,000 for allegedly pushing his glove in the face of an umpire. During a game at Montreal last Thursday, the umpire called Madlock out on strikes. Madlock has appealed the ruling by National League President Charles Feeney.

Baseball trading cards will be used to spread crime prevention tips to area children this year in an effort launched by the Columbus Division of Police. The cards have photos of Columbus Clippers players on the front and a crime prevention tip on the back. The cards will be distributed to youths during spring and summer.

Martinez Jackson, father of the New York Yankees famous Reggie, will be profiled during "Prime Time Saturday" at 10 p.m. Saturday on WCHM-TV4. The story was filmed in Reggie's old neighborhood and at Yankee stadium. Martinez played for the Newark Eagles in the Negro National League.

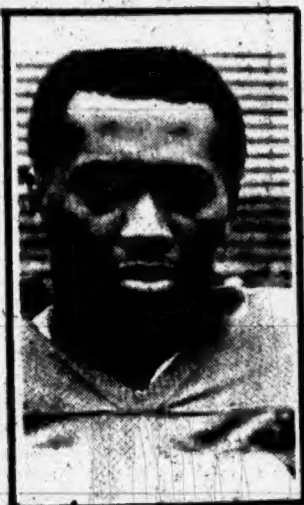

Michael Spinks, the younger brother of Leon, scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Murray Sutherland in a light-heavyweight fight Sunday in New York. Spinks is undefeated and has won 12 fights in a row.

Buckeyes To Preview 1980 In Spring Clash Saturday

By HIRAM L. TANNER

The annual OSU spring football game will be played in the Ohio Stadium at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The Buckeye varsity squad has been divided into two teams, Scarlet and Gray. Both teams were chosen by players.

Tailback Calvin Murray, flanker Doug Donley, linebacker Keith Ferguson and cornerback Ray Ellis were elected co-captains of the 1980 Ohio State football team. Murray and Ferguson will lead the Gray team and Ellis and Donley will be co-captains of the Scarlet team.

Murray rushed for 872 yards and six touchdowns and averaged 5.0 yards per carry last season. His top game came against Wisconsin, gaining 135 yards on 14 attempts.

Donley was named to a first-team All-Big 10 berth last year. He caught 25 passes for 522 yards and scored four touchdowns. He holds OSU record for career receiving yardage (1,365) and shares the school mark (with Bruce Jankowski, 1968-70) for career TD catches (9).

Linebacker Ferguson started his career as an offensive tackle with the Buckeyes. Last year he switched to defense and led the team in sacks with 1 for a minus 85 yards.

Ellis will be back for his third year as a regular in the OSU secondary. Last year he had 59 total stops including 39 solo tackles. He tied for the team lead in interceptions with four.

Promoted

GOLDSBORO, N.C. — Stephen M. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Roberts of 1115 Wisconsin Blvd., Dayton, Ohio, has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of senior airman.

Earle Bruce, Ohio State's head football coach and the nation's Coach of the Year for 1979, will be on "The Earle Bruce Spring Show" at 11:30 p.m. Saturday on WBNS-TV10. Bruce will discuss his plans for rebuilding the offensive line during the 30-minute program that will include 1955 OSU Heisman Trophy winner Hopalong Cassidy.

Julius Peyton and the other Ohio State cheerleaders will show how they made it to final competition in the National Collegiate Cheerleading Championships when squads from five universities are shown at 8 p.m. Thursday on WBNS-TV10.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who dominated Darryl Dawkins and the Philadelphia 76ers Sunday to win the opening round of their National Basketball Association championship contest, has been named the Player of the Year by CBS Sports' NBA board broadcasters.

Jabbar and his Los Angeles Lakers played game two on Wednesday night and will play the third game at 3:30 p.m. Saturday. The game can be seen on WBNS-TV10. The fourth game will be at 3 p.m. Sunday on TV10 and if a fifth is necessary, at 11:30 p.m. next Wednesday on the same channel.

Capital University will sponsor its ninth annual Crusader Basketball Summer Camp with a one-week session July 6-11. The program, open to boys who are in the sixth grade through senior year of high school, will be directed by Capital coach Dave Grube. Fee information and brochure applications can be obtained by calling 236-6811.

Richard Delaney, associate athletic director of athletics at Ohio State, is in consideration for athletic director of the University of Cincinnati. Delaney joined OSU in 1970 as assistant director of athletics and was named to his present position in 1977.

Black Ambulance Owner Accuses 6 Hospitals Of Practicing Racial Bias

Six Columbus hospitals have been accused of discriminating against a black ambulance service in patient referrals.

Andrew McBroom, of the Eastside Ambulance Services, 1883 Maryland Ave., filed the charge last week in a letter to The CALL & POST.

He identified the following hospitals as discriminating against his firm: St. Anthony, Grant, Mercy, Doctor's North, University and Riverside.

McBroom contends that the hospitals are aware that many of their patients are transported to them by his ambulance service, "yet we are being overlooked and white ambulance services are being given all the referrals when the patients are ready to return to their respective homes," McBroom alleged.

Such acts are in violation of the guidelines set by Title VI and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act under Medicaid and Medicare programs, he said.

He said the Eastside Ambulance Services was started eight years ago "for minority residents in the city and surrounding areas because they were unable to obtain elsewhere the type of service that we provide."

"It was just yesterday that so many blacks and some whites too, in this fair city were being told by the Emergency Squad personnel, see if you can get a friend or a relative to transport you to the hospital, for we don't feel you are sick enough for us to take you," he said.

McBroom, who said the lack of referrals is crippling his business, and added that "even now white ambulances will not come into the predominantly black areas after dark. But on the other hand, we transport patients any hour of the night and we know a lot of them are our patients," he commented.

"Yet," he continued, "When it is time for them to return home and the hospital staff finds out that there is Medicare or Medicaid money involved, the white ambulance services are contacted during the day-light hours," he said, adding:

"We have made numerous attempts to solicit some of this business, but all we get is the run-around," he complained.

Based on this action, "we are inclined to believe that this system is purely racially motivated," McBroom concluded.

In a post script, he appealed for community support "in helping us eradicate this practice of discrimination in the medical field." He also said all of his ambulances are equipped with heart monitoring devices and are staffed with an electrocardiogram technician certified by Doctor's North Hospital.

Police Probing Fatal Shooting Of Eastside Man

A 66 year old Eastside man who was found shot to death inside a Mt. Vernon Ave. apartment last Wednesday afternoon, was still under investigation by police at CALL & POST deadline this week.

Cassell T. Hughes, 385N. Monroe Ave., was found inside the home of Caroline Clark Nooks, 751 Mt. Vernon Ave., police said. He had been shot once in the chest with a .38-caliber revolver. The gun was lying by his side, Homicide detectives said.

Police gave this account of incident:

As five to seven persons were leaving the apartment Wednesday afternoon, they heard a door slam and then heard a single gunshot. Hughes' body was found in a room about 4:45 p.m. There was no indication of a struggle in the room and apparently nothing had been taken from the victim.

Homicide Sgt. William Steckman said "we are looking at it as a homicide, although the autopsy is consistent with a suicide."

He said they have been talking with a lot of people.
